One studying strategy to use with TD²

- You can flip either the definition column or the term column.
  - This will become like a flash card.
  - You can then use them to help memorize and understand any concept for an exam.

What if I can’t draw?

- You don’t have to be an artist to do this.
- As long as you understand the term/concept that is the most important part about this strategy.

Sources:

What is TD²?

- It stands for Term, Drawing, Definition.

What does it help with?

- This will help understanding different concepts in sociology.

Why will this work?

- “90% of information received from the brain comes from the eyes.”
- “Pictures are also easier to understand and remember than words.”

Quotes came from:

https://yogahealer.com/why-drawing-helps-you-learn/

How to use TD²

1. Grab a piece of paper and draw three separate columns.
2. Draw as many rows as you need for the terms (make sure to have space for the definitions and doodle).
3. In each column on the left, write down the term/concept name.
4. Then on the right side, write down the definition of the corresponding term/concept.
5. In the center of the two columns, draw the term/concept based on the definition or an example of the definition.